BESSIE MAY.

BY W. LAMONT.

Far away, far away where the dunes bloom,
And the butterflies nod to the passing breeze;
Where the fir groves scatter their sweet perfume,
And the black birds sing from the hawthorn trees.

Where the rivers flow, in a crystal tide,
And the green of the grass with the overhead vines,
And the stars that sparkle the heavens wide,
Smile down on the land with their loving eyes.

When the sun, as he journeys toward the west,
Vest his fingers, and faint would they,
And the birds that sing from the hawthorn trees,
Tend the breakers that on the rocks below.

There lived a maiden, sweet Bessie May,
As fair as the dunes of the hawthorn trees,
With eyes as bright as the stars of the night,
And a smile that was like a fairy's smile.

Brown was her hair, and the roses glow
Of sunset on the cheek on her cheek,
Contrasting the white of the swan-like neck,
That pointed her brow and her swan-like neck.

Bessie was fair as summer sky—
A diamond amongst the roughest sand—
As fair as the dunes of the hawthorn trees,
As fair as the dunes of the hawthorn trees.

Up to the eye on the clouds,
Where the eagle had roared his savage cry,
She would climb like the sailor among the clouds,
And laugh at our tears in her fearless mood.

And yet she was loved by not a few,
And worshipped by one as something divine,
With a heart of love, that was pure and true,
As the hidden gem in the darkness mine.

We were children together. She and I
Would climb the shells from the sandy beach,
Or watch the seaweed restless fly,
As for ever the waves as on our necks.

We climbed the cliffs to the swallow's nest,
Or gathered the sea-weed golden brown,
Till the sun far off in the distant west,
Let the curtain of twilight softly down.

We were happy together those summer days,
And we dreamed not the vision would ever fly,
Nor a thought of life, nor its tangled maze,
Would darken the line of our perfect sky.

But the months, the months and years rolled by,
And we stood on the waves as before,
Angry and black were both sea and sky,
For the waters were troubled by the stormy wind.

We stood and we gazed on the sunset scene,
And my heart was dark as the water waste,
For the giver of my hopes was already gone,
And I knew that I was forever lost.

Another she loved; and I knew it then,
That I felt in my heart her love was vain,
For the serpent, however you may gild his den,
Is a serpent still, with the serpent's stain.

A stranger he came from a far off clime,
And he loved her as the serpent loves his prey,
With an artist's pride and an artist's whim,
With an artist's pride and an artist's whim.

In the wondrous beauty of Bessie May
His art had found a true and prize,
Ah, dark was the hour and black the day,
That he caught the light of her sunny eyes.

Two was the same old story over again,
The lonely word and seducing smile,
Had proven too much for a maiden vain,
Who was conscious not of deceit or guile.

He had won her love; and we stood on the shore,
With the angry waters kissing the shore,
And the sea gulls screaming on every hand,
As away from the storm their flight they bore.

I knew that my hopes were blighted and dead,
And the thoughts of my heart I did not say,
Till my pride came forth, and I told you said,
A last farewell to sweet Bessie May.

Unstrange that mankind can hide the death
That lies on their hearts and still seem gay;
And strange that the bloom of our youth can
Be forever turned into ash and gray.

Away over the sea in another land,
Where the life is draped with the Spanish moss,
And the mocking bird, with his pen and grand,
Keeps time to the breeze that his branches toss.

I had wandered there, when the war-wolf howled
Through the land in his savage mood,
And the demon of death fiercely howled,
Where city, and hamlet, and homestead stood.

O'Donovan Rossa.

HEAD OF THE DYNAMITERS IN WHOM OFFICE THE ATTEMPT WAS MADE TO KILL CAPTAIN PHILAN.

It is generally believed that the head of the dynamiters in New York City, who is believed to be the proprietor of the dynamite business, and who is a man with a history and world-wide reputation. Even more than usual notoriety is given his name just now, because of the recent attempt, in the office of that newspaper, to kill Captain Philan, an Irish patriot of Kansas City, by another patriot with whom Philan seems to have had a little misunderstanding in the absence of the lord and master of the premises. Readers who do not actually read it, are undoubtedly acquainted with the fact that the United Irishman is at the head and front of the journals advocating any and every means to injure England, and that the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland does his utmost to prevent its circulation in the country the interests of which it professes to serve.

O'Donovan Rossa is a native of the county Cork, Ireland. He was born in 1822, and is gray. His father died in March, 1847, and the widow and children were a short time after evicted from their home by an alien landlord. From that time forward, says his biographer, O'Donovan Rossa was at his heart a rebel against British rule. His first experiment in business was as a store-keeper in Ireland. In 1858 he was arrested for connection with the Phoenix Society, the organization from which was developed the more powerful brotherhood of Fenianism. He was in trouble with the authorities a second time in 1865, and was put into prison, where he remained until 1870. In this year he came to New York, and opened hotel. After having been banished for a few years he began his career as journalist.

Strong views are entertained of O'Donovan Rossa by both friends and foes. Those read his ferocious articles with admiration and entrust him with subscriptions to be appropriated in the destruction of English ships, buildings, etc.; these regard him in exactly the opposite way, going so far as not only to discredit his professions of patriotism, pure and disinterested, but to accuse him, with greater or less distinctness, of treacherous connivance with the British authorities. The exact truth as it lies in or between these extreme views, is not easy to determine.

Our subject has a comfortable home in Brooklyn, over which his wife presides.

Better than She Expected.

"Your letter received. In reply I am happy to say that Parker's Hair Balsam did much more for me than you said it would, or than I expected. My hair has not only stopped falling out, but the bald spots are all covered, and all my hair has grown thicker, softer and more lively than it was before my sickness a year ago. Thank you again and again."

The meeting at the Baptist church last night was a success. The church has just closed with the rise of over 40 conversions and about the same number of additions. The church is wonderfully prospering.

Died, at her home, on Sunday, Jan. 18th, Mrs. Cassie Norman, of consumption. Her remains were interred in the cemetery at this place. She professed faith in Christ some months before her death.

Mr. J. E. Stout has sold his farm to a Mr. Westfield, of Pleasant Ridge, for $2000.

The lectures of Mr. James Rogers, together with the clergy which I understand he is organizing, are calculated to do much good; and the people should lend a helping hand to blot out of the many great curses which man suffers from.

Rev. W. C. Neal preached an able and interesting sermon here on the 25th, which was principally directed to the young converts.

His Loss was Her Gain.

"Well, madam," said a fashionable physician to a wealthy lady patient, "if you don't like my prescriptions, perhaps you had better try Parker's Tonic, or some other quick stuff." "You don't mean it, Doctor," she answered, "but your advice only goes for that. That is the best and most scientific medicine I have ever used." She got a bottle of Parker's Tonic and it cured her of neuritis arising from disordered stomach and nerves. She told her friends, and now they all keep a doctor at home in the form of Parker's Tonic.

EXCITEMENT IN ROCHESTER.

Wide-spread Commotion Caused by That Remarkable Statement of a Physician.

The story published in these columns recently from Rochester, N. Y., in which Dr. H. H. Warner, of that city, created a deal of comment here, has been so widely and so earnestly discussed, apparently it cannot even now excite in Rochester, as the following from the same paper shows:

Dr. J. B. Henson, who is well-known in Rochester, has been very busy every part of America, sent an extended article to this paper a few days ago which was duly published, detailing his remarkable experience and reasons for what seemed to be certain death.

It would be impossible to enumerate the personal enquiries which have been made, nor the use to the validity of his remarks, but they have been so numerous that further investigation of the subject was deemed an editorial necessity.

With this end in view a representative of this paper called on Dr. Henson at his residence on Andrews street, when the following interview occurred:

"That article of yours, Doctor, has created quite a whirlwind. Are the statements about the terrible condition you were in, and the way you were rescued such as you can sustain?"

"Every one of them and many additional ones. I was brought so low by neglecting the first and most simple symptoms, I did not think I was sick. It is true, I had been feeling unwell for some time, but I did not think it worth the trouble to go to a doctor. I thought I would wait and see if it would get better. It did not, and I was brought to the point of death. I was rescued by the use of Parker's Tonic, which I had heard of, and which I had bought. It cured me of my disease, and I am now as well as ever."

"You are now as well as ever?"

"Yes, I am now as well as ever. I have been cured of my disease, and I am now as well as ever."

The court has decided that when pensioners have deposited their checks in bank that the money can not be attached or garnished by the creditors of the pensioner.

We regret that William Lamont's beautiful poem, "Bessie May," had to be continued until next week on account of lack of space. It is a rare production, indicative of genuine genius and refined literary taste.

There is a call in another column upon the Hon. Jesse S. Williams for the Legislature, subject to the action of the Democratic party. Mr. Williams made us a good member once, and would not doubt do so again. He is a gentleman of ability and education.

The meeting at the Court-house, Saturday next, should be largely attended. The wishes of the majority of our people should be respected. The people of this voting precinct spoke out in a positive and emphatic manner at the poll last August, against the sale of intoxicating drinks. The majority was very large, and should be respected. The object of the meeting, next Saturday is to inquire by what right, if any, the Trustees of Hartford set at defiance the wishes of the masses of the people by granting saloon licenses. Let every man and woman in the precinct, who desires to see the expressed wishes of the masses of the people respected, be on hand next Saturday.

Improvement of Rough River.

A petition is being circulated in the city asking our Representative in Congress, Hon. John J. Kleiner, to use his influence in securing an appropriation for the improvement of Rough creek in Kentucky.

Rough creek, or Rough river, more properly stating it, for the stream is navigable for small boats even at this time—is an important tributary of Green river, and the citizens along its banks have large trade relations with this city, and are anxious for increased trade facilities with our merchants and manufacturers. Should the general government purchase the franchise of the Green and Rough river Navigation company and open up Green and Rough rivers to full navigation, the advantages to this city cannot fairly be estimated. The Green river section is properly tributary to this city, and if our citizens exert themselves as they should in helping our neighbors in Kentucky in securing the necessary government aid to open up a free river communication with this city the immense trade and commerce of that section will naturally come to us.

Our fellow citizen, E. G. Ragon, Esq., is actively pushing this matter, and it is hoped his efforts will be seconded by all our merchants and manufacturers.

—Eugene J. Janciel.

The above is a move in the right direction. We need and must have Rough river made navigable, and every possible effort should be made to secure it. We should at once send an able man to Washington to press the matter through. We nominate Judge A. B. Baird as the proper man, to be sent at once to Washington to aid in securing the necessary appropriation and we hereby start a subscription to defray his expenses, heading it with $5.00. Who will second the motion and follow suit? Let us strike while the iron is hot; take the tide at the flood, and secure the glorious results of easy and cheap transportation.

The Battle of Shiloh.

The survivors of the brave Seventeenth Kentucky Volunteers will read with interest the following extract from General Grant's article on the battle of Shiloh in the February Century. The open field referred to was right in their front. General Grant says:

"Shiloh was the most severe battle fought at the West during the war, and but few in the East equalled it for hard, determined fighting. I saw an open field, in our possession on the second day, over which the Confederates had made repeated charges day after day, so covered with dead that it would have been possible to walk across the clearing in any direction, stepping on dead bodies, without a foot touching the ground. On our side Federal and Confederate were mingled together in about equal proportions; but on the remainder of the field nearly all were Confederates. On one part, which had evidently not been plowed for several years, probably because the land was poor, bushes had grown up, some to the height of eight or ten feet. There was not one of these left standing unperforated by bullets. The smaller ones were all cut down."

STATE NEWS.

The Tobacco Association of Woodford county has offered a reward of $500 for the detection of a barn-burner.

Leroy Gray, an old colored gunsmith living in Russellville, died suddenly Sunday morning of lock-jaw.

David Meriwether, for 55 years proprietor of the Meriwether Hotel, Frankfort, Ky., died last Friday after a brief illness in the 73rd year of his age.

John Wolfe, who was serving a ten year sentence for forgery, and who was the leader of the convicts who attempted to escape last August, died in the penitentiary last Friday from the wounds received on that occasion.

The Methodist Standard formerly published at Owensboro, has been moved to Princeton, and is being published by Rev. J. S. Seabe, presiding elder and Rev. B. D. Dutton, formerly editor of the Butler county News.

John Smith aged 19 years, says the Messenger, was drowned in Rhodes creek, near Birk City, on Monday of last week while skating. Smith was a step-son of John Wimmers.

The Bowling Green Times says the oldest person in Warren county is Mrs. Mary Roman, who lives in the vicinity of Hadley. She is 99 years of age, in good health, is sprightly and can see as well as most persons at sixty. Her youngest child is 64 years of age.

A chestnut fence rail made by Abraham Lincoln in 1824, in Hardin county, has been sent to the New Orleans Exposition. It will be placed by the side of the blue coat made by Andy Johnson, when he was a tailor, which was recently sent to New Orleans from Tennessee.

There is now living in Marion county an old woman named Charlotte Dard Laupkin Shuck, who was born March 17th, 1750, and is therefore in the 135 year of her age. There is a genealogical record now in possession of Mr. James Laupkin, who is over 70 years old and to whose great-grandfather, Oard, Charlotte originally belonged.

Ben Green, living in the Pickaway neighborhood, says the Messenger, was killed last Thursday by a falling tree.

Mrs. Jennie P. Cary, wife of G. P. Cary, of Calhoun, died Sunday night of last week.

The Franklin Capital says: The man who boasts that he has never lost an hour's sleep on account of a woman, who swears he never sent a valentine or penned a love letter, spent a month's salary in beating his sweetheart, or made an eternal fool of himself generally on account of a pair of eyes or a pretty mouth, is the chap who could steal his mother's wedding ring and pawn it for the purpose of lending out money on usury.

Stewart's March.

Gen. Stewart, after his victory at Abu Klea Wells on the 17th ult., moved with his army in the direction of Metemneh, twenty miles southeast, on the Nile. That city was fortified, and he changed his course to a southerly direction, intending to strike the river at another point fifty miles north of Khartoum. On the morning of the 10th Stewart, while marching across the desert five miles above Metemneh, found himself surrounded by the army of the False Prophet, El Mahdi. The enemy numbered 5,000, while there were only about 1,000 of the British. Stewart formed his army, as at Abu Klea, in a hollow square, and a desperate conflict ensued, lasting all day. The English lost between 700 and 800 men. The total loss of the enemy was 1,200. Gen. Stewart was badly wounded, and so were Col. Burleigh, correspondent of the London Telegraph, and Lord Alric and Somerset. Col. Herbert, special correspondent of the London Post, was among the slain.

Stewart's march is described as the most adventurous and heroic of modern times. Stewart is in communication with Gen. Gordon, whose rescue is the object of his expedition. After the Abu Klea fight Stewart and his men disappeared into the desert and were not heard of for several days. This caused great anxiety in England; and when he reached a point of safety great joy prevailed instead.

The following patents were granted for the week ending January 27, 1885, reported expressly by this paper by Jos. H. Hunter, Solicitor of American and Foreign Patents, 334 F Street, Washington, D.C.:

West Point Baptist Church.

This church closed a series of meetings of 18 days continuance last night. Thirty-five persons, faith in Christ, twenty-two were received for membership and several backsliders renewed. The candidates will be baptized on the second Sunday in February.

The Rev. D. J. K. Madley, was aided by the writer. The members of the church and hosts of Christian people in this beautiful and fertile section of country were quite ready from the beginning of the meeting to the end for every good word and work, and never have I seen a community of Christians work in more united, prompt and harmonious concert in the one grand enterprise of bringing souls to Christ.

It is quite remarkable also that the meeting continued with unabated interest through a series of sudden and severe changes of weather. Rain, storm, mud, sleet, snow, ice and cold were all overcome, many of the congregation walking six or eight miles per day in attending the services.

E. H. MADLEY, Minister, Ky.

In Memoriam.

Arthur P., infant son of S. T. and S. K. Leach, Ohio county, Ky., after an illness of eighteen days, here called on Him who said, "Suffer little children to come unto Me and forbid them not, for of such is the Kingdom of Heaven."

Arthur was seven months and 20 days old when he died. Another child has blossomed in the beautiful garden above; another thread is laid in the cloud that binds the living to the Celestial City, which I can tell you how sweet he was with his sparkling blue eyes and rose-lip cheeks. Who can describe them? Only those who have known him loved him, and are precious to them as Arthur was to us, can know anything about him. He was the very life and joy of home. It seemed so short a time to have him, and the dear grandmothers, who loved him as only grandmothers can. He was laid to rest "Thy will be done."

He had grown to be a part of the very life of those around him when the angels came and took him away to the happy gates, which swing wide open for the pure white baby soul to pass, where it has long since been said "Suffer little children to come unto Me."

Hon. Jesse S. Williams the Right Man.

MELLENBY, KY., Jan. 17th, 1885.

We the undersigned, believing that the Hon. Jesse S. Williams is the right man to make the race, on the Democratic ticket, for Representative in the next Legislature, take this method to pledge him our earnest support.

The New Orleans Exposition.

It is perhaps to be regretted that the managers of this great enterprise threw open the doors to the public while there was yet so much to do to place the Exposition in complete order. There was some excuse for this in the unexpected attendance, which the public who came, and then some exhibitors at ways will be tardy, no matter how much time is allowed them for completing their arrangements. Besides, the roads seem to have made very mediocre provision for handling the great quantities of freight. The incumbrances of the street at that time was, probably, less of a drawback than the weather, rain having falling at almost continuously for the first three weeks.

We noted in a former communication the sale of the Bell Union farm by Messrs. Hunt Barnes and Ham Miller. We learn since that the farm was not consummated, but the farm is still for sale on very reasonable terms.

Beaver Dam Notes.

February 2nd, 1885.

Our newspaper failed last week to report the marriage of our young friend, Charlie M. Cooper, to Miss Mollie Housh, of the Lone Star State. The wedding took place at the residence of the bride's father, on the evening of the 22nd ult. A large number of boys, and we were all very happy to witness the happy success and happiness through life.

Dr. McKinney, brother of our neighbor, R. J. McKinney, has located at the place to practice his profession, that of dentistry. We understand that he is a graduate of the Medical and Dental College of the Vanderbilt University, which with his good references, and his high standing in the confidence and patronage of the public.

The school at this place, closed on Friday night last, with a very creditable exhibition by the pupils. The attendance was large and orderly.

The Methodist quarterly meeting was held at Goshen, on Saturday and Sunday. The Presiding Elder, Rev. G. R. Browder, was in attendance and preached impressive and edifying sermons. He will preach at the Liberty church on Friday night next, at 6 o'clock. The meeting at Goshen has been continued for several days with every indication of good success.

We noted in a former communication the sale of the Bell Union farm by Messrs. Hunt Barnes and Ham Miller. We learn since that the farm was not consummated, but the farm is still for sale on very reasonable terms.

For which Texans are so eminently distinguished.

Our host, Ed. Wilson, knows just how to treat a Kentucky guest. If you ever visit Austin stop at the Avenue. And, for argument, all my expectations in the grandeur of her way out, the magnificence and cost of her business houses, public buildings and residences. Some buildings and some towns now line the Main Avenue, and the whole town shows that it is now enjoying a big boom.

The Legislature was just convening, which made the reception room at our hotel quite lively. Among these came the Solons I found a number of old acquaintances by whom I was introduced to a number of these Representatives of the Lone Star State. The candidates for the various offices to be filled in the House and Senate were as numerous as you ever saw them at Frankfort on a similar occasion.

Of course I worshipped on Sunday with the Baptist church, where I enjoyed a most hearty welcome from Pastor Howard and many of his members. With many of them I enjoyed a former acquaintance.

At night I witnessed a very interesting scene, which was the baptism of a new convert, and the baptism of a young child into, an inmate of the Asylum for the Blind, both of whom made most intelligent professions of faith in Christ.

PERSONALS.

Mr. M. W. Ward, of Morgantown, was in town several days this week.
Mr. W. R. Bannet, of Owensboro, is visiting his sister, Mrs. John P. Bannet.
Mr. J. B. Wilson, of Sutton, left last week to attend college at South Carrollton.
Rev. G. R. Browder, Presiding Elder, Owensboro District, M. E. church, to-night. Give him a full house.
Mr. John Miller and wife, Miss Nellie Davis, of Kentucky, were visiting Mrs. Miller's parents last Sunday.
Monday was County Court day, and despite the roughness of the weather, a large number of the yeomanry of the county was out.
Mrs. W. B. Hayward, of Sulphur Springs, is at Mrs. Mosley's, quite sick. We are glad to learn, however, that she is improving.
Ed Davidson, of Cincinnati, J. M. McDowell, D. B. Felix, of Horton, and McKelley Bell's Run church are new pupils of Hartford College.
Our young friend, Jacob Smith, manager of the Trade Place, returned from an extended visit to relatives in Chicago, Evansville and other points last week.
Miss Nannie Alexander, who has been visiting Misses Little and Adams for a week past, returned to her home in South Carrollton, last Saturday.
Mr. T. J. Jones, of Owensboro, is in town with the view of establishing a circulating library in Hartford. We hope he will succeed. See his advertisement in this issue.
Our popular and handsome agent and correspondent, Mr. Willie May, of Haynesville, was in attendance at our Gift Distribution last Saturday. We are sorry to learn from him that he is leaving Haynesville in the near future. Ohio county can't afford to lose many such young men as Mr. May.

Mr. John T. Martin, representing the wholesale hat house of Swan, Abraham & Co., Louisville, was in town a day or two this week interviewing our merchants. Mr. Martin is from this county and we wish him success in his new field of labor. We had the pleasure of a call from him while here.
Captain Sam K. Cox and wife, Dr. J. E. Pendleton wife, and daughter Tina, Wayne Griffin and wife and Miss Mary Taylor, of Hartford, Wm. G. Duncan and wife, of McHenry, and Miss Fannie Brotherton and Agnes Craig, of Owensboro, form a party for the Southern Exposition, to leave for Orleans to-morrow. We wish them bon voyage.

Dr. L. A. King, of Calhoun, has been at the Hartford House since Thursday and has been busily engaged in his professional duties. Dr. King was delayed in reaching here and consequently his visit is limited. He will return home to-day, but will be in Hartford again in the spring, and notice of which will appear in the Herald.

Tom Robertson, head man of the famous Stevens shoe factory of Louisville, will be in town to-day. He comes to learn what kinds and sizes of shoes the Bazaar will use this spring. This to many will seem early to buy spring and summer goods, but where merchants have all their goods made to order, as the Bazaar does, it is necessary that their orders shall go in at least two months ahead of the season. The Bazaar now controls the sale of these goods from Louisville to Greenfield and has increased the sale of them ten hundred per cent in the last few years. This shows what drive will do in business.

Mrs. Mattie Barrett, the elegant and accomplished wife of Col. John P. Barrett, editor of the Hartford HERALD, has been the guest of Mrs. S. D. Hayden and daughter, Fidelia, of the Beckham house the past week, and will be quite an addition to the society circle in Calhoun, her childhood home. Her graceful manners, combined with a sunny disposition, cheer the gloom and scatter sunshine every where. Mrs. Hayden expresses her appreciation of the visit, by saying that her presence has been the greatest source of comfort in fact the brightest meteor, that has crossed the dark horizon of her life since the death of her daughter, Mollie, and desires her to visit them again soon.—Green River Courier.

Downright honesty.
To permit yourself and family to "suffer" with sickness when it can be prevented and cured so easily with Hop Bitters!!!
Having experienced a great deal of "trouble" from indigestion, so much so that I came near losing my life! My trouble always came after eating my food.
However light and digestible.
For two or three hours at a time I had to go through the most excruciating pains, and the only way I ever got relief was by throwing up my stomach contents. No one can conceive the pains that I had to go through, until
At last!
I was taken so that for three weeks I lay in bed and could eat nothing. My sufferings were so that I called two doctors to give me something that would stop the pain; their efforts were no good to me.
At last I heard a good deal about your Hop Bitters!
And determined to try them.
I got a bottle—in four hours I took the contents of the bottle. Next day I was out of bed, and have not seen a Sick Hour.
From the same cause since.
I have recommended it to hundreds of others. You have no such advocate as I am.—Geo. Kendall, Allison, Boston, Mass.

Columbus, Ohio, Texas, April 21, '85. Dear Editor: I have tried your Hop Bitters, and find they are good for my complaint. The best medicine I ever used in my family. H. TALENT

The Caneyville Academy will open on Monday next, under the auspices of Prof. John O'Flaherty, assisted by a competent corps of teachers. Miss Claggett and Miss Hazel, two charming young ladies of Grayson county, are engaged to assist Prof. O'Flaherty in the school labors at Caneyville. The former, an accomplished musician, will take charge of the music and other departments, and the latter, a young lady of splendid attainments, will have charge of the primary and intermediate classes. This school is bound to be successful.

In the neighborhood of Col. Ben Johnson, in McLean county, has been found the oldest terrapin on record. Mr. Sam Taylor cut his name and date on its shell in 1819. In 1840 Col. Ben Johnson, while making one of his many surveys, found the terrapin and examined it carefully. He and his party spoke of the fact, at the time as one which had attained its majority. In 1857 Col. Sam Johnson, then clerk of the McLean Circuit Court, carried this terrapin and inscribed his name by that of Sam Taylor's with the date "1857." The terrapin was often seen up to 1860, after which date it disappeared and was seen no more until last November, when Col. Ben Johnson found it near the place where he first examined it in 1840. He found the names and dates both distinct. The frosts of so many winters have given its horny covering a tinge of gray but it moves as erect and with a step as elastic as it did 45 years ago, when Col. Johnson first discovered it. It has been sent to New Orleans, and placed in the Kentucky geological display.—Owensboro Inquirer.

The Exhibition at Beaver Dam.

The exhibition at Beaver Dam, last Friday night, closed the five months' term taught by Prof. O'Flaherty assisted by Miss Nora Taylor.

The concluding exercises were in full keeping with the general character of the school, absolutely successful.

It was, for the time spent in preparation—one week and two days—the best school exhibition which has been given in the county for many a day. The young ladies and gentlemen acquitted themselves with credit, and are entitled to great praise. The dialogues, declamations and vocal music were of the very best, and the pupils showed all the evidences of careful training.

Prof. O'Flaherty deserves praise for his faithful labor in the school-room.

One dollar will entitle you to read books from the library for six months or ten cents by the single book. This library will contain works from all the popular authors of the day. Mr. S. A. Williams will have charge of the library and it will be handsomely arranged in the front of his store on Market street. Parties from the country wishing to subscribe can do so by calling on Mr. Williams, who will explain its workings, or address T. J. Jones, care of Commercial Hotel. Parties from a distance can draw books from the library by mail, as a lot of all the books will be furnished subscribers.

College Notes.

Hartford College is booming. Twelve new students have been matriculated in the last two weeks.

Miss Nannie Alexander, of South Carrollton, visited the College last week. We enjoyed her call very much.

More than 75 per cent. of the young gentlemen and ladies who have matriculated since the beginning of this year are young teachers. This speaks well for the College as a Normal School.

Prof. G. P. Henry has three additions to his algebra class this week. He thinks a great deal of this class and reports them advancing rapidly.

The entire school is divided into two spelling classes, which recites every afternoon.

Another class in physiology is being formed this week with a number of young ladies and gentlemen.

Extray Notice.

Witness my hand this 7th day of January, 1885. JOHN P. MOORE, J. P. O. C.

Rosa Belle.

We have just heard the deep, rich, musical whistle of this little steamer meeting our wharf, just returning from a cruise on larger waters, laden to the water's edge with its valuable cargo. How forcibly this reminds us of our recent trip. We steamed out from here on this little packet, with its gallant crew, with the swiftness of a bird and soon lit in a tree top, but with the assistance of the pilot, Mr. Sedgwick, and the increasing efforts of the engineer, Captain Sullivan, Mr. Jerry Williams the clerk, and the entire crew—the ladies not excepted—this started, fluttering bird, somewhat shorn of its beautiful plumage and rather crest-fallen, was soon calmed and became manageable, and glided on its course amid breakers of ice, drift wood &c., landing in safe in port, and then laid up for repairs.

The citizens of Hartford have cause to be proud of their little packet, for during high water and mud it gives them easy access to the outer world. The time from here to Livermore is three and a half hours, connecting with railroads, and steam boats, either going North or South, East or West. Ladies traveling unattended on this boat will receive every courtesy they would at home from husband, father or brother. For tourists and pleasure-seekers this is the most romantic and picturesque stream navigable, for surpassing the Kentucky river, in variety of scenery. In mid-summer as you ascend from its mouth, the banks level and profusely covered with rose-linden shells and exquisitely formed pebbles, and either side are low, rich table-lands under cultivation, with stately farm houses, and on the distant hill-sides will be seen the little herds lazily grazing. After passing the locks and dams, this stream becomes more snaky-like in its movement and you find from the mouth to its source that it abounds in fish and wild game. In many places in mid-summer the trees on the tall cliffs and lowlands close over the boat making a cool arched glade under its intervals.

How refreshing after a sail in the sunshine, to pass under those moss-covered shelving rocks, with their bits of trailing vine and wild flowers, and to feel the balmy air, moistened from the ever flowing miniature cascades above us. To all this grandeur is added the music of the wild birds, combining to make a harmonious blending of Nature. In mid-winter this stream loses none of its charms, for when you pass under those grottoes you are forced to exclaim, how beautiful! how grand! for you feel conscious that you have entered some handsomely adorned crystal palace, for the water trickling from the shelving rocks above, freezes into the most transparent stalagmites and statuettes and as you move on, new beauty is added, for in passing near a lovely cascade, you find the water has frozen in sprays, more beautiful and delicate than a bridal veil. To those wishing to travel on the Rosa Belle, we will say that Capt. Sullivan is the embodiment of Kentucky hospitality, and from him and the polite and obliging clerk, Mr. Jerry Williams, you will receive every attention. They have secured a most excellent cook, Anthony Walker, (colored), of Hartford, who is willing and ready to serve you a good meal and should you chance to complain of being indisposed, he too seems to be looking after the interest of the passengers, and before you are aware of the fact, will be served to a delicious steaming cup of coffee. All these little attentions are appreciated and make it exceedingly pleasant. Tourists stopping here, should not fail to take a stroll and see the sights, for Hartford is one of the oldest towns in the State and is situated upon the ground where the first fort was built; consequently, is encircled with a halo of historic glory.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of consumption, bronchitis, catarrh, asthma and all throat and lung affections, also a positive and radical cure for nervous debility and all nervous complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellow-men. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, in German French or English, with full directions for preparing and using. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. A. Noves, 149 Powers Block Rochester, N. Y. 10-17 1yr.

Disc Fortune.

The eventful (to us and several others) 31st, ultimo opened gloomy and remained so until the shadow of night waded it to depart. A cold disagreeable drizzle and very uninviting roads accompanied it. Notwithstanding this, however, at least 500 yeomanly people came in to attend our long-announced Gift Distribution. The Court-house, where the distribution took place, was packed and jammed with humanity, from a root-wad man up to the developed flower of womanhood, from urchin to grand sire, from Hardup to Dives. The best of order and perfect good humor prevailed. First-rate music discoursed by the Hartford Cornet Band, entertained the assemblage and enlivened the scene.

Judge Baird by request acted as president of the meeting, to preserve decorum and decide disputes should any arise. Before taking the chair he made a few appropriate remarks. Mrs. J. Warren Barnett, for procuring the largest lot of subscribers to the HERALD, was presented a handsome sewing machine by Mr. H. B. Kinsolving in a most speech in our behalf, Capt. Sam E. Tilt dutifully responded for Mrs. Barnett. After a due explanation as to the manner of procedure, the fun commenced, at half past one o'clock. The organ popped out right at the beginning, surprising everybody and causing a concert of ejaculations very similar to distant thunder and expressive of displeasure and disappointment—the lucky man not being present. The gold watch and the sewing machines were drawn at well timed intervals. The frequent and generally irrelevant draws of the Hand and Horse books produced much amusement. The baggy staid in until one amongst the very last revolutions of the impartial wheels, when forth it came, and another sound as of distant thunder was elicited, deeper this time, for again the lucky man was not present; and then, to continue the comparison, the thick cloud of human kind began to partly dissolve, and showers of individual drops poured out of the door, down stairs into the streets, the most striking a line for home, the others hastening, alas! to the nearest bar-room to plunge into the oblivious draughts of Lethian liquor.

The majority of the crowd held pluckily together to the end, loath to leave, and got comfort from the balmy strains of the band.

This closed a large day in Hartford, without a single untoward circumstance except perhaps the pathetic incident mentioned above. The HERALD is proud that it was the agent of such an occasion. Its circulation has been increased consequently, and the benefit of a home paper more widely diffused. Judge Baird, Judge Gregory, Mr. John L. Barnett, Capt. Sam E. Hill, Miss Jessie Ford, Miss Oona Smith, Mr. H. B. Kinsolving and Capt. Henry McHenry kindly lent us their valuable aid in conducting the distribution, for which we tender them our sincere thanks.
